

Innovating futures with digital technology: Rehabilitation and healthy ageing with complex chronic conditions

Harnessing technology to support healthy ageing and maintain independence

Save the date: Friday October 3, 2025 - 9:00am - 5:00pm

University of Manchester (in-person), Pankhurst Building

Free to attend; estimated number of attendees: 50 people

Key focus areas

- ☐ Best practices on co-designing and delivering technology
- ☐ Successful implementation of technology in rehabilitation for older people
- ☐ Strategies for rehabilitation, ageing and technology

Keynote speaker

Prof. Dawn Skelton

Dawn Skelton (FRCP Edin, Hon FCSP, M.D.h.c) is an exercise physiologist and is currently Professor in Ageing and Health at Glasgow Caledonian University.

Falls prevention exercise technology: does it facilitate or drive fidelity and dose?

Registration and poster submissions

Registration

Symposium registration link

Poster submission

Symposium abstract submissions link

Questions? Email: ageingsymposium@manchester.ac.uk

Acknowledgements: This Symposium is funded by a University of Manchester-University of Melbourne-University of Toronto partnership grant. We also acknowledge support from the Rehabilitation Science Research Network for COVID, Temerty Faculty of Medicine, University of Toronto, and the Canada International HIV and Rehabilitation and Research Collaborative.

Each Session will focus on the research and the lessons learned around ageing, technology and rehabilitation.

Results from this discussion will be drafted into a manuscript for publication.

TEMERTY FACULTY OF MEDICINE
UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

Rehabilitation Science
Research Network
for COVID